Dear School Families,

Another week at MMS has come and gone. Each week feels as if we are setting a record pace. It has been a tough week of ups and downs but we are safely navigating our way.

A couple of stories from this week I thought all of you may enjoy...

I am not sure many professions are as fortunate as a school principal...

I was strolling down hallway this week and out of the blue a grade 2 student yells out, 'I love you Mr. Hayward'. That makes it easy to overlook that they yelled in the hallway. Thanks for making me feel special.

Today we had our fantastic maintenance crew installing our new water dispensing fountain. This of course requires them to lay on the floor to work on it. A grade 2 student (a different student), reported to the teacher, quite concerned I might say, 'Why is Mr. Hayward laying on the floor?' This caused a moment of panic from the teacher for my safety! I am just happy they are all looking out for me.

A few reminders...
